CONTEST

Announcement from Hattiesburg to The Echo Thursday of this week announces the opening in Hattiesburg of Senator Pat Harrison's campaign headquarters. The office is in charge of Nathan G. Fairchild, manager; Henry R. Conn, assistant manager and Mrs. William Buchanan, hostess, all of whom invite the Senator's friends to visit them when in Hattiesburg and make the office their headquarters.

Mr. Fairchild, a local business man is well known throughout this section as being prominent in church, fraternal and civic circles, and for years has been a leader in the American Legion here. Mr. Conn is one of Hattiesburg's best known young business men and comes from a well known and prominent family of this section.

According to the officials in charge lows: Apron contest, Dorothy Arenof the office here an active campaign dale, Logtown; table setting contest, will be made by Senator Harrison in Marie Hilda Leonhard and Rosewill be made to see as many voters as possible and present to them his washing contest, Alice Dawsey and record in Washington and discuss Edith Maye Dawsey, Logtown. Mr. Fairchild says that authentic information reaching here from every section of the State advices that Senator Harrison's friends everywhere are rallying to his support and that prospects for his re-election are assured.

The Hattiesburg Headquarters are located on Front street.

CENTRAL SCHOOL FACULTY RE-ELECTED

City Superintendent S. J. Ingram will continue his excellent city school work next session with practically the same splendid faculty of the past session, it was unofficially learned. In two instances a slight readjustment was made in salaries, a small advance over a former drastic retrenchment. Teachers have more work than formerly due to increased enrollment and limited number of teachers. Hence the slight advance in compensation is by no means begrudged. A number of teachers from away have returned to their respective homes. They and local teachers will attend normal and do other work to increase their efficiency and to keep abreast with the modern trend of better teaching.

'QUEEN MARY' FAILS TO SET OCEAN RECORD.

MOMPLETING her first voyage across the Atlantic, the British liner Queen Mary put into New York harbor this week-but she failed to surpass the record crossing established by the Normandie last year.

An official comparison of the times of the Queen Mary and the Normandie was not immediately available. 'The comparison was further complicated by the fact that the Queen Mary's crossing was measured from Cherbourg breakwater to Ambrose, while the crossing of the Normandie was measured from Bishop's Rock light, at the entrance of the English channel, to Ambrose, 193 nautical miles shorter. #### SHORTCUT AGAIN

NNOUNCEMENT was made at Baton A Rouge this week by Henry B. Henderlite, Louisiana Highway State engineer, says an Associated Press dispatch from that city, that recent rains had interferred with the immediate reopening of the short cut from New Orleans to the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

He said there still remained several days of work to be done and that this could not be done unless the road was dry.

It is surprising to learn even that much about the Shortcut opening since the Louisiana Highway Department fails to respond to inquiries directed from organized bodies and officials and others, vague somewhat. It fails to convey the information sought, When will the Shortcut be open to the public?

There is seemingly much mystery about the entire affair. Apparently there is some undue force hindering the opening, since, as we are not in authority and, with the major portion of the traveling population, will have to suffer in silence, well remembering the old adage that we must endure the things that cannot be cured. In the meantime, here is summer, soon in its very zenith. The very thing two States had hoped for at this time, the opening and use of the Shortcut, remains closed and under the most mysterious appearances, even though they be only outward. The result is all the same. It seems to be a monumental waste to have built this road through swamps and mastering so many difficulties, building of expensive steel bridges over rivers and creeks, to have the entire set-up unused. The later the opening the less

All such resolutions are wellmeaning but mostly meaningless. Talk about reducing taxes, insofar as the state is concerned, is useless. All the time we are taking on new obligations, heading for heavier expenditures.

No use in proposing a gasoline tax reduction when we are spending $43,000,000 for a roadbuilding program. All revenue from that source is needed .

> It cannot be maintained that these signs are not seen by drivers and other occupants of cars traveling along the roads. If the advertising signs were not read by those traveling by, the advisers would not have spent their money to erect them. Therefore, the presence of an advertising sign alongside a highway is prima facie evi

As a matter of fact many times it is the small, not-easyto-read sign that is more divertising and in trying to deciper the sign, the driver fails to see the obstruction in the road, be it another car, a person, or animal or curve.

Mr. Dalton is right. Advertising signs along the highways are a menace to human life, and they should be prohibited by law.

It is alreadly unlawful to place signs within 100 feet of a public highway or where they will obstruct the view of the motorist when rounding curves.

But this is insufficient. ### Editors To Coast

ISSISSIPPI'S editors will gather at Gulfport the last three days of next week for the annual convention of the Mississippi Press Association. It promises to be one of the greatest meetings in the history of the state's press. The outstanding feature is the address of Governor Hugh L. White, who has promised to "break the story" of how he proposes to "balance industry with agriculture." The Governor showed rare judgement in selecting the press convention for the announcement of his program, inasmuch as he must have the support of the editors of the state to make it

Unashamed Solons

Members of the current legislature are not a bit backward in taking the new jobs they created at the recent session, regardless of the doubtful meaning of the consitutional section on the subject, and to date there is no record of a single member of either house having turned his back on one of the jobs. Senators Cooper and Terry took jobs with the land office and Representative Dr. J. S. Hickman accepted appointment to the East Mississippi insane hospital. Now Senator Lambright has taken a job as "field man" with the new unemployment insurance administration and on top of this comes the news that Representative John Holloman likely will accept the job of legal advisor to this new creature of state government.

Why Not Arrington?

Speaking of jobs, all of the statesupported hospitals now have new superintendents save and except the charity hospital at Meridian. Governor White indicated several weeks ago that the superintendent of that institution, Dr. Lamar Arrington, would be put out with the rest of the superintendents, but he changed his mind and announced a few days ago that Dr. Arrington will remain "for the present." The governor gave no explanation of his change of mind, nor did he indicate how long Arrington will hold the pob.

A Joke on Craig

Capitol political circles have been convulsed with merriment recently over a joke on Carl Craig, state auditor. It seems that when Mr. Craig started thinking seriously of running for auditor, he got the Code of 1930, thumbed its pages to ascertain the salary the job pays. He found it was $5,000 a year, decided it was worth running for but after he got into the midst of his campaign he learned to his dismay that he had consulted the "dummy" edition of the code and that the salary actually was only $3,150. But he gritted his teeth, as it were, and went ahead. Along with other state officers he asked the legislature for a

The gas companies attack the validity of the proration act of the legislature declaring it violates the contract clause of the federal constitution. The object of the legislation was to prevent a few of the 119 producing wells in the field from "pulling" more than their proportionate share of the "common pool." The protesting companies insist that proration at this time will deny them an adequate supply of gas for their customers. The matter has been carried to the federal court when the commission refused to give in.
